CONTENTS

JURISPRUDENCE

Nasonova I.A., Tsinova M.V. Certain aspects of the functioning of the criminal procedure institute inquiries in abbreviated form ..............................................................7
Lelekov V.A., Urusova T.V. Female criminality prevention by means of general-and-social precautions.......................................................12
Mixautadze S.R. Features of the procedure of execution of court decisions, the head of the territorial body of internal affairs about the placement of juveniles in detention centres .......................................................18
Sukhareva E.R. Judicial problems of modern reproductive technologies: genetic material and anonymity of donors .........................................................................22
Kolesnikov V.A. The international legal framework for cooperation through Interpol ..............................................................29
Gorokhovtsev O.V., Egorova E.V. Constitutional sense of justice in mechanism to ensure a background in constitutional responsibility ........................................37
Samodelkin A.S. Interaction of the detective units as an element of detective activity coordination .........................................................42
Borodinova T.G. Characteristic features of the form of appellate judgment’s review in criminal proceedings nowadays .............................................................48
Maksimenko A.V., Yakovlev V.I. Features of legal regulation of using identical technical decisions .................................................................53
Rozhkov A.Yu. The demand of the procurator’s participation in the civil and arbitrary process .................................................................57
Snegovoy A.V. Legal and organizational aspects of activity of law-enforcement bodies of Russian Federation at force majeure .................................................61
Soboleva M.M. About interaction between the police and civil society institutions in the sphere of protection of rights and freedoms in Russia ........................................................................66
Strigina I.E. Forensic economic examination in law enforcement practice .......................................................................70
Tyurina I.N. Ways of improving the quality of legal regulation of compulsory educational measures ..........................................................76

PEDAGOGICS. PHILOSOPHY. PSYCHOLOGY

Meshcheryakova E.I. Features of application of methods and educational tools in the course of individual work with minors ........................................82
Korablyov S.E., Krasnenkova S.A. Social-psychological and cultural origins of consciousness extremist .................................................................89
Pashkova E.V. The concepts of decent existence in application to individual and the society (ethical-legal analysis) ..........................................................96
Mogilnichenko S.V. The foreign language competence formation in the universities of Emercom of Russia: problems and solutions ........................................102
Bazylionok A.V. Democracy and civil society — urgency in modern society .................................................................105
RADIO ENGINEERING

Lukin A.N., Chepelev M.Yu., Andreeva O.A. Embodiments of blocks convolution coding system in radio-technical systems .................................................................113

Abramov P.B., Lenshin A.V. Electronic warfare equipment of onboard defense complex of aircraft as mass service system .................................................................122

INFORMATION TECHNOLOGIES AND MATHEMATICAL MODELLING

Skril S.V., Avsentiev O.S., Sizintsev M.Ph. Mathematical model of illegal acts against parties that manage their assets through remote banking systems ....................................................132

Solodukha R.A., Atlasov I.V. The correlation testing of the steganalysis algorithms based on chi-square criteria ..................................................................................................................139

Yatsun S.F., Ponedelchenko M.S., Turlapov R.N. Synthesis of control moments of the given law of motion of the three-stage manipulator exoskeleton ......................................................................146

Bukharin S.V., Melnikov A.V., Navoev V.V. Forecasting of values of the generalized indicator of quality of volume announcers on the basis of neural modelling .....................................................................153

Sitnik S.M., Timashov A.S. A finite dimensional approximation method for problems of quadratic exponential interpolation of signals ..................................................................................163

Rossikhina L.V. The models of correctional institutions of the criminal-executive system plans formation, taking into account risks .............................................................................172

Samorokovskiy A.F. General approaches to the modelling of law-enforcement bodies actions at different types of emergencies ..................................................................................................182

SCIENTIFIC REPORTS

Bulgakov O.M., Paklyachenko M.Yu. Method of convergence acceleration of structural-based linear algebraic equation solution algorithm .............................................................................190

Menshikh V.V., Kalkov D.Yu. Automaton model of the actions of intruders in the protected objects ..............................................................................................................................196

Lukin A.N., Irkhin V.P., Andreeva O.A. Mode for carrying adder for coding systems in radio-technical systems ..................................................................................................................201

Pastushkova E.A. Construction of the model of adaptation synthesis of decision-making in the control system of the functionally redundant set of actions ...................................................................206

Vazhenin V.V., Bazhenov S.V. On criteria for determining optimal standards number of units cid ..........................................................................................................................211

Prokofeva E.V., Veselin V.V., Prokofeva O.Yu. Modernization of metallographic research method of forensic expertise in view of nanotechnology ...........................................................................218

Information for authors ..........................................................................................................................228